It is often suggested that legal restrictions be placed on the sale of dynamite, and that its use be forbidden unless especially authorized. Such restrictions would probably be of little effect where there was a determined purpose to use dynamite. What is wanted is the exermination of the dynamiter.

To BE a gentleman and to live a gentleman ought to be the same; but, in common accontation, they have no connection, are indeed often opposed. To be a gentleman means a great deal-far more than many who claim to be gentlemen have any conception To live like a gentleman refers generally to externals alone, to outside presentation, to keeping up appearances.

Ir is too late in the history or the world's progress to question the value and importance of good roads. They are the distinguishing marks between civilization and barbarism; as a mag nificent boulevard on either side of which are the beautiful Christian homes made attractive by all that wealth, art and culture can bestow, is the type of one; so amid the lonely solitude and silence of erng and cliff, the trail and cave of the Digger Indian is the type of the other.

GRAND OPENING OF THE EXPOSITION

Success of the Illumination and Electrical Panorama Other Actractions

Sr. Louis, Sept. 1.-This is the second night of the street illuminations, which will be repeated on Saturday and Monday, and also on Sept. 15, 22, and 19, as well as on Oct 1, 4, 5, 11. grander even than that of last week, every set piece, panorama and arch having been carefully overhauled, and maying been carefully overhauled, and improvements made in the arrangements and apparatus wherever thought advisable. The city is full of visitors, and tourists are arriving every day from all parts of the continent and also from Europe. The special railroad rates are greatly increasing the attendance and the carnival of 1892 has already made itself a marked suc-cess as well as a distinct feature in national as well as local history. St. Louis electric car system is admittedly the finest in the world, but it afternoon and evening. A large num-ber of new cars are being constructed and deliveries are expected immediately.
